

Full Light, Full Steam #2: A Daring Tourists Solagraphy

Steam-powered ships harness the lumineferous ether to travel to distant planets, and the cause of Empire is quick to follow. Once the worlds Great Powers reached for the heavens, it was only a short time before they filled the sky with their navies, their wars, and their colonies. And in the midst of all this, there are the few, the proud, the brave those who serve in Her Majestys Astronimical Navy, who support and protect even the least of the Empires citizens, no matter how distant, how cold, how lonely their corner of the solar system may be. In this chapbook, read from the collected journals of Miss Marcie Edgewood, sailor and traveller of the solar system. From her start as an enlistedwoman in Her Majestys Astronomical Navy to her later years as a tourist with her husband, Edgewood has seen everything there is to see in the solar system, and her reminisces are collected here for your purview.
