

In The Lap Of The Gods: The Phoenix Series Book 4

This is the fourth book in the series so far, and it takes the stories featuring the Olympus Project in a new and exciting direction. From Larcombe Manor, Phoenix and Athena have battles to win against vicious gangsters on home soil and urgently need to identify factions within the organization plotting to take it in a different, far more sinister direction. The opening scenes at Glastonbury 2013 to the closing chapter cover little more than a month in time. Yet in that short month, the landscape surrounding the Project is altered forever. The action is non-stop as it switches from the West Country to Windsor, then from England to the Mediterranean. Take a deep breath; once you start you'll want to keep turning pages until the end. vigilante justice, secret organisation, crime thriller, action adventure, closure, revenge, suspense the development of the characters and their relationships is beautifully handled taut and well plotted fast, thrilling and engaging a fascinating array of characters and consistent tension
