

Four Play

What little I know about writing, I learned through penning short stories. I have always been fascinated by that period of history we call the Dark Ages. Each of these pieces is a work of pure fiction although each is rooted in an actual historical event.: A Fall in Antioch is set at the time of the First Crusade and the leaders like Bohemond, Count Raymond and Stephen of Blois are actual historical characters. The story of Peter Bartholomew and Christs lance is also true. The Winter of the Danes and Incident on Athelney are clearly set early in Alfred the Great's reign. Hereward, Eadred and their adventures are pure invention. Vinland is loosely based on a Norse saga. We are coming to learn more and more that many of these sagas recorded actual events and were not merely entertainments. It is almost certain that Leif Ericson crossed the Atlantic nearly five hundred years before Columbus and not, as many artists have imagined, in a dragon-prowed longship a drakka but in a fat-bellied trading vessel, a knar. The Story begins with Biarni Heriulfsons accidental voyage. This is lifted straight from the sagas. Hereward, Eadric Wulf Harroldsson may all appear again in further short adventures. Hereward and Eadric are slated for the full-length treatment in The Kings Hunting Dog. Hereward is clearly destined for great things! I hope you enjoy these tales. They are meant to pass an idle hour or two pleasurably and are definitely not to be taken seriously!
