

Pakistans Blasphemy Laws: From Islamic Empires to the Taliban

Under the guise of Islamic law, the prophet Muhammads Islam, and the Quran, states such as Pakistan, Afghanistan, Egypt, Saudi Arabia, and Bangladesh are using blasphemy laws to suppress freedom of speech. Yet the Prophet never tried or executed anyone for blasphemy, nor does the Quran authorize the practice. Asserting that blasphemy laws are neither Islamic nor Quranic, SHEMEEM BURNEY ABBAS traces the evolution of these laws from the Islamic empires that followed the death of the Prophet Muhammad to the present-day Taliban. Her pathfinding study on the sharia and gender demonstrates that Pakistans blasphemy laws are the inventions of a military state that manipulates discourse in the name of Islam to exclude minorities, women, free thinkers, and even children from the rights of citizenship. Abbas herself was persecuted under Pakistans blasphemy laws, so she writes from both personal experience and years of scholarly study. Her analysis exposes the questionable motives behind Pakistans blasphemy laws, which were resurrected during General Zia-ul-Haqs regime of 1977-1988 motives that encompassed gaining geopolitical control of the region, including Afghanistan, in order to weaken the Soviet Union. Abbas argues that these laws created a state-sponsored infidel ideology that now affects global security as militant groups such as the Taliban justify violence against all infidels who do not subscribe to their interpretation of Islam. She builds a strong case for the suspension of Pakistans blasphemy laws and for a return to the Prophets peaceful vision of social justice.
