

9-11/Phase 2: Operation Golden State

About the Story Terrorism. The newest face of war. Long gone were the days of proud rows and columns of soldiers, bugles and drums and proud banners marching into cannon fire. Guerrilla warfare changed that. A handful of men armed with box cutters changed that, when they took down the World Trade Center and a wing of the Pentagon. And now from deeper into the criminal shadows would arise the next fear in disguise. It would not matter how rich their opponents were. Or how powerful their weapons were. Or how high tech their security was. Every nation had its vulnerability. For Americans it was that cherished Peace they took for granted. They were about to have their vulnerability tested once again on their own home turf.
