

Hands of Deceit

In the late 1800s small ranchers like the Bar B Ranch, owned by Aubrey Burton, were victims of large land investors. If not careful they would sometime loose their ranches to deceitful, greedy foreign companies. Aubrey inherited her ranch along with a mortgage and had to fight for her life to keep. In order to survive she often turned to her friend and adjacent rancher Matt Thompson for help. Matt owned the famous Rocking H Ranch and was known by all in Casper, Wyoming. When disaster occurred, without knowing the danger involved, Matt was always there for Aubrey. He helped her survive the murder of family and hired help, her barn burned and eviction, and each time something occurred that endangered Aubreys life, Matt realized just how much she did mean to him. He helped her overcome the hands of deceit.
